

“Horoscopes” written for ComedyCentral.com and T-mobile. Subscribers to the Comedy Central Horoscope service receive one horoscope texted to their mobile phone every day, according to their sign. All horoscopes must be 138 characters or less. Written by Maggie Sandford, Copyright 2007-2010 © Comedy Central and MTVN.

- You are thrilled to meet a wealthy benefactor today, until you realize he's only wealthy "with love." Great.
- You're a busy squirrel with no time for this crap: the tree-way is blocked by a rabid Raccoon & you've got a nut-holder's meeting in 10.
- Nothing to fear today, especially not things falling from the sky and fracturing your skull. Lucky #s: ears, neck, face.
- Mars is in the 2nd House, 'cause we TOTALLY trashed the 1st one at this sweet intergalactic party. Dude, you shoulda been there.
- Actually, your power animal is a middle-aged white woman with a bunch of turquoise rings whose power animal is the eagle.
- You're a brilliant artist, breaking ground in multiple new mediums. But your heart is really in art criticism.
- Your sign indicates that you define “salad” as pickled ham + mayo, Jello with fruit in it, or lettuce with a LOT of grated cheese.
- Your "Cats Bashing the New Yorker" cartoon series does not receive publication in The New Yorker.
- Signs indicate it's a dark night in a rotten city. Suddenly there's a silhouette in the doorway. It's a dame. She's got a case.
- You move to a remote cabin to work on your novel, only to move back when you realize there's no one around to see you working on your novel.
- Things are looking up in work, love, and family, but not-getting-your-hand-stuck-in-the-bank-tube-thingy takes a real downturn.
- Fate gives you just what you wanted this week, before she takes it back because she really just wanted it for herself.
- Your talent and vivacity is exciting to everyone who is you.
- You're a knave and a braggart, but damned if you aren't the finest bagniokeeper this hamlet's ever seen!
- You're feeling a little down this week, but it's only because Jupiter is in your house, and it has that BONE CRUSHING GRAVITATIONAL PULL.

- Kindness comes from an unlikely source today, so... you should probably wash it before you use it.
- Inconvenient as it may be, you like the novelty of being the only cowboy who travels with a sousaphone instead of a harmonica.
- Love is in the air, today! ...And by air, we mean "internet." And "love" might be the wrong word too.
- Damned if your new breezer doesn't hit on all sixes with the flappahs and cats down at the speakeasy. Hawt DAWG!
- After your beloved dog passes away, you find some small, if awkward, comfort in chewing on his old squeak toys.
- You find rock hit animal make good eating. Also, round thing go faster than dragging. This big day in cave.
- You like Chinese food.